In-Text Parenthetical References in MLA Style

MLA citation style requires that writers cite a source within the text of their essay at the end of the sentence in which the source is used. The parenthetical reference should be inserted after the last quotation mark but before the period at the end of the sentence.

General Form: (Author Last Name Page #)

Example: (Smith 42)

If two quotations from different sources are used in the same sentence, the parenthetical reference associated with a particular quote should be placed as close to the quotation as possible without interrupting the flow of the sentence.

If a paragraph includes several quotations from a single source, a single parenthetical reference may be placed at the end of the paragraph. Page numbers should be included for each quotation organized by placement in the paragraph. In the following example, the first quotation from Smith appeared on page 43 of the text. The second quotation used in the paragraph came from page 12.

Example: (Smith 43, 12)

If the author is included more than once on the Works Cited page, the following form should be used. Note that the format of the title on the Works Cited sheet should be mirrored in the parenthetical reference (i.e., if the title is italicized on the Works Cited page, then the title fragment should be italicized in the parenthetical reference).

General Form: (Author Last, "Title Fragment" Page #) or (Author Last, Title Fragment Page #)

Examples: (Smith, "Who Moved" 42) or (Smith, Big Changes 172)

The following examples illustrate format for texts that have more than one named author:

Two Authors: (Johnson and Smith 244)

Three Authors: (Johnson, Smith, and White 244)

More than Three: (Johnson et al. 244)

If there is no author, a title fragment should be used to make a connection between the use of the source and the citation for the source on the Works Cited page.

General Form: ("Title Fragment" Page #) or (Title Fragment Page #)

Examples: ("Library Links" 13) or (Building a Bookshelf 42)

If page numbers are not available for a source (particularly electronic sources) this space should be blank.

For other considerations, see the MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 7th ed. (pp. 213-230).
